Listen to your users in 60 languages - Feedback Form Translation

Continuing Kampyle's commitment to every website owner's specific needs, we have recently added the possibility to translate your feedback form. If your site's content is in one language, why should your Feedback Form be in another? You can now translate any given Feedback Form Instance to over 60 languages. Read more...

Actively ask for feedback - "Push" Mechanism

How can you get your users to submit more feedback, letting you improve your site to suite their needs? Simply ask them for it! We've created a feature that allows you to prompt a certain percentage of your users to leave a feedback before they leave your site. Its effectiveness is proven: Kampyle users that use the push mechanism receive substantially larger amounts of feedback. Read more...

WHAT users do and WHY - Integration with Web Analytics

We are currently working on combining our Feedback Analytics data with web analytics data. Get it all in one place - find out WHAT your users did on your website and WHY they did it. In this way you will be able to benefit from the best of both worlds: the user-subjective data coming from the online feedback reported by actual website users and the user-objective

Partnering with Nuonomy

We have recently joined forces with Nuonomy, a great new web analytics company. Nuonomy enables its customers to measure user engagement on their sites, helping you understand your users' activities and their interaction with the various features of your site. By combining these two sets of data Kampyle is able to notify you that you have received a feedback from your most important user on your site - a value that Nuonomy can define. Read more...
